President's Message -

Do you have newsletter or writing experience?

Are you creative?

After nearly four years, Angela is stepping down in December, and the Echo needs an editor.

Now's the time for another member to take it on and put their mark on the Echo!

Contact Kristin or Angela for more information.

Confession time. When COVID 19 became an everyday consideration, I wasn't sleeping very well. Much of what was keeping me up at night was how to steer a social organization through a pandemic that keeps us apart. Would I, as President, be the weak link in MVWC's 50-year history? As it happens, the President is not the linchpin of our Club. Our volunteers are the ones who keep this organization important, useful, vibrant and fun. I am so grateful to our outgoing Board, our current Board and all the other women who put their talents to work on behalf of our organization.

We are not operating the way we did in 2019, and yet, we are doing more than ever. I should have known that a group of 'doers' and 'goers' like the MVWC would find ways to have fun while getting it done - whatever the "it" may be. Our Board and members have jumped in and are making IT happen. Board Meetings, Zoom Meetings, Newsletter, Website, FUNdraising, MVWC Service Project, Events, we are doing all the things we have always done – and we are still having fun.

So please get out your calendar and attend the Paige Lewis Event, the Bake Sale, the November speaker (cooking demonstration) and all the new and interesting things we have planned. Never hesitate to recommend a Zoom speaker or event. We have funds in the budget for these events, although thus far, many speakers have volunteered or reduced their fees for us.

I invite you to join the women who take on projects big and small. We need more members involved. If you have a bit of time to spare, call me. We can find a place for anyone and a project that fits your talents.

I try to picture what it will look like when we can get back together, maybe in a park, maybe with masks, but I can't quite conceive of not hugging each other after so long apart. So, I send my hugs to you now, and thank you for being the best part of MVWC. Stay safe!

Best wishes for safe and healthy days ahead,

Kristin Carkeek - MVWC President, 2020/2021

To honor our members, and ensure we are sharing timely information, we have begun sending email messages to the membership and created an “In Memorium” page on the website.

Our Zoom account is popular! Most weeks we have at least one meeting scheduled each day. While there has been a learning curve, we appreciate so many Activity Group Coordinators using Zoom to keep their groups connected. One helpful tip is to use a descriptive title when you are scheduling a session, so others can easily find it. Because so many members are using the account, if you schedule an event without a specific title, it MAY get deleted or double booked.

If you have questions about Zoom, Debbie Kovesdy and the GenTech team can help! Debbie has offered our members 15 minutes of Zoom help if you have questions. Call Gen Tech Support at 602-374-5624, identifying yourself as a MVWC member.

Once your Zoom question has been answered, be sure to thank Debbie & GenTech staff for their help!

We are so grateful to our new members who join us during a time when we can’t be physically together. In any other year, we would meet these ladies at a luncheon or an event and welcome them in person. Until those times return, I encourage existing members to reach out to our new members to welcome them with an email or a card. At the MVWC we have always made our new members feel welcome. Now we need to find new ways to achieve our goals.
